

Dear New Bruin and Family,

Congratulations on your admission to UCLA and your eligibility for the University of California Blue and Gold Opportunity Plan! The plan ensures that eligible students have sufficient grant and scholarship aid to cover tuition and student service fees for your enrollment at UCLA.

Because you qualify for the University of California Blue and Gold Opportunity Plan, your financial aid offer reflects up to $13,752 (or more) in combined grants and scholarships. Your eligibility is based on meeting the following requirements:

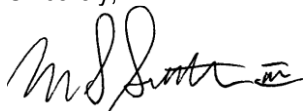

- You apply for financial aid annually by March 2 and are a resident of California.
- Your family income is below $80,000.
- You are a UCLA undergraduate with at least $13,752 in unmet financial need, noting awards may be smaller based on calculated financial need.
- You enroll at least half-time in each academic year term.
- You meet Satisfactory Academic Progress standards, you don't already hold a bachelor's degree, you are not in default on any prior student loans, and you do not owe any federal student aid refunds.

Details

Your eligibility for the University of California Blue and Gold Opportunity will be evaluated annually. For an entering freshman, the plan will cover system-wide tuition and fees for four years. For an entering transfer student, the plan will provide funding for two years. The plan does not cover summer school enrollment.
